A passion for primary care

Our Family Medicine providers and staff at Samaritan Healthcare have a passion for primary care. They enjoy providing consistent care to the whole family across the generations—from infants to children, teens, adults, and elders. They take time with patients and help them take steps to meet their goals of better health.

Whether patients are experiencing complex issues or need routine care, our providers get to know their individual healthcare needs. They also know the importance of explaining treatment options so patients understand why a treatment is being recommended.

By establishing connections to patients, our providers provide ongoing guidance and help them to be more preventive throughout their treatment plans.

At Samaritan Family Medicine we:

- Recognize that each patient is a unique individual
- Provide open, honest communication
