Samaritan Behavioral and Mental Health

 Samaritan
Community-owned since 1947

Convenient. Comprehensive. Right here.

Holistic care.

At Samaritan Family Clinic, you will find providers and staff that are a part of our integrated behavioral health services program. They work together with Samaritan Family Medicine primary care providers to care for both physical and behavioral health needs of Samaritan patients as well as those referred by other healthcare facilities. This allows all the providers to stay up-to-date regarding the coordinated treatment of our patients.

Samaritan's Behavioral Health Services are conveniently located in the family medicine department, which helps to remove barriers or stigma for those who need appointments for behavioral or mental health care and treatment.

Caring for behavioral and mental health needs

Behavioral and mental health providers include Saad Alvi, MD who specializes in addiction medicine. Katie Kist, DO who is board-certified in child, adolescent, and adult psychiatry. Kati Hughes, Teresa Hutsell, and Jonathan Ingram, who are board-certified advanced practice psychiatric mental health nurse practitioners and also advanced registered nurse practitioners; Fabian Gonzales, and Liz Walker licensed mental health counselors.

Samaritan's Behavioral Health Services include:

- Behavioral/mental health assessment
- Mental health counseling
- Addiction medicine
- Prescribing medications when needed as part of the treatment plan
- Explaining the process and the benefits of following treatment plans
- Connecting patients with services available
- Other treatment as needed
